

Not Much.

Hoof and Horn, an Arizona publication, says: "To the men who are now trying to shove Arizona into the sisterhood of States, in order to promote their personal longings for office, the dying State of Nevada should be a sufficient warning that this agitation of Arizona is premature and inimical to the best interests of the Territory. Nevada's people are eager to escape from the burden of Statehood, no matter by what means, and as Statehood once conferred cannot be taken away, there seems to be no way open for them to do so, except by the annexation of sufficient territory to support a State government. The press of Nevada frankly admit the lamentable state of affairs."

We know but little of Arizona's resources, but if you wait five years you will see Nevada doubled. A few good winters and half a dozen reservoirs will fix Nevada.

SOMEbody is talking a whole lot of nonsense to the Chronicle and other papers about this country, and it will do Nevada lots of harm. An article published yesterday says Tahoe has over a thousand square miles of catchment, which is doubling the truth, and can save water up for a hundred million acres of land. Such talk as that will just set the people crazy who own the outlet of Tahoe and other lakes, and when Nevada people or the Government try to buy them out to make a reservoir, they will want a hundred times what their property is worth.

Any correct information is valuable, and should be scattered everywhere, but ridiculous exaggeration is never useful, and has been a curse to every place that indulged in it. This is a time for careful calculation and honest endeavor to benefit the State, and the GAZETTE will encourage no other.

A WRITER in the Live Stock Journal says that the craze over dehorning has abated considerably. Several large feeders say that they have saved their last horn, and that in the future they would be satisfied to let nature take its own course in the matter of horns. The buyers almost always discriminate against the dehorned cattle. The representative of a large packing house remarked the other day that he would not buy dehorned cattle if he could get any other, or unless he could buy them for less money. When pressed for a reason, he claimed that dehorned cattle did not do so well on their feed, and that they did not "kill out" so well as those that had never felt the dehorner's saw.

THE Carson Tribune is of the opinion that a promise made by a candidate for office to those who make personal sacrifices for his success should be collectable the same as any other debt. In some cases this might be just, but it would give the "rounders" and "strikers" too strong a pull.

THE law which goes into effect on September 1st makes no mention of anything except sawdust being kept out of the Truckee. The mill men are making no preparations to keep slabs, bark, logs, wood or edgings out.

ALL water rights must be recorded in legal form on or before the first day of September next.

The Wheat Market.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The Department of Agriculture is in receipt of a cablegram from its European agent in London to the effect that the Handling international grain market at Vienna estimates the wheat crop of Europe as lower than expected, and the crop in Russia and Hungary especially bad.

A Great Day for Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27.—The Grand Army encampment proper opened today. It is estimated that over fifty thousand Wisconsin people alone arrived. By noon there was a great crush in hotels and streets. At the Plankinton house Mrs. Logan divided honors with General Sherman and Pension Commissioner Tanner. As she came down from breakfast the veterans gathered around her with great enthusiasm, and she was compelled to hold an impromptu reception.

The weather is perfect for the grand parade. Large numbers of thieves and pickpockets have been arrested. MILWAUKEE, Aug. 27.—The parade has been the great event of the encampment. It is well managed, a fine spectacle, and a complete success. The procession started on time. The head of the column began to move at 10 o'clock, and reached the reviewing stand on Grand Avenue at 10:30. A conservative estimate of the number of men who passed that point places it at 35,000. A noticeable incident of the parade was the enthusiasm of the old veterans whenever they caught sight of General Sherman. He was greeted with loud cheers and round of cheers. Streets, sidewalks and windows are filled with people, the whole forming an inspiring spectacle.

They Will Cool Off.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—If the official rumor which reached the State Department is confirmed it will give an almost comical effect to the angry remonstrance of the Canadians against the operations of the Revenue cutter Rush in Behring Sea. The story is to the effect that the steam sealer Black Diamond, the first vessel seized this year, is owned in a large degree, if not entirely, by citizens of the United States. This information came to the Department incidentally while inquiry was being made into the truth of the statement that the U. S. Vice-Consul at Victoria was interested largely in some of the Colonial vessels illegally sailing in Behring Sea, which statement, so far, has not been officially confirmed.

Dangerous Place to Buy Beef.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—Reliable news comes from the southern line of Kansas and the pasture lands of Indian Territory, that herds of native and Texas cattle which range in the Territory are afflicted with Texas fever, or something worse. A man just returned from that part of the country states that hundreds of cattle are dying in pastures south of Arkansas City. He says cattle are being shipped to market from pastures where carcasses are lying.

Hit 'Em Again.

MONTREAL, August 27.—The advance Liberals here, who are fast becoming the power in the Dominion, are up in arms over the Behring Sea seizures, and their organ, the Montreal Herald, in a leading editorial, declares if Great Britain, as would seem, intends to maintain its good relations with the United States regardless of Canada, the only thing for Canada to do is to declare herself independent of the mother country.

Not All True.

WHEELING, W. Va., August 27.—The glass and crockery men say that reports sent from New York of a trust formed by the manufacturers of window glass, table glass and crockery are absurd. There is a basis for it in the proposed combine of table glass manufacturers and the plan will doubtless be consummated, but the crockery and glass men have no idea of combining.

Not Bashful.

WASHINGTON, August 27.—The following telegram was received this morning by the naval officer from Irving M. Scott, President of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco: "Relative to the recent official trial of the Charleston, she was successful in every respect in six hours' run under forced draft. That's the way we do things in the West."

A Discreet Lord Mayor.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The strike situation is unchanged. It is rumored that the printers intend joining. Ships are being unloaded at Chatham and Southampton without interference. The Lord Mayor has refused to become the arbitrator of differences fearing it might conflict with his judicial duties. The strikers now number 130,000. Coal porters at important centers are now joining. Two hundred and fifty steamers are now lying in the docks awaiting cargo. Riverside factories, employing thousands of hands, are closing for lack of coal. The coal men in thousands have joined the strike and the situation shows no signs of improvement. Meetings of employers and workmen continue to be held but without result. The Directors of the Commercial Docks Company have declined the offer of the services of 3,000 Belgian laborers at 4 1/2d. per hour. The printers employed by the three largest print firms here have struck. One hundred thousand striking dock laborers marched in procession to-day. They were orderly.

Prize Fight and Arrest.

By Associated Press.
TROY, N. Y., Aug. 27.—In a prize fight at Cohoes this morning between Joseph Murray of New York, and James Kennard the St. Paul kid won in fourteen rounds. Murray was unable to stay longer as he had a wrist broken and the fight was given to Kennard. After the fight the Cohoes police raided the hotel in which the battle was fought. Kennard escaped but Murray and Trainer Toohy of New York were arrested.

Not Used to Excitement.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 27.—The Hamilton tragedy of yesterday is still the all-absorbing topic. Hundreds of people linger about the closely-locked cottage, other hundreds being about the jail where Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton are confined. Mary Ann Donnelly, the nurse whom Mrs. Hamilton eluded, is still living in a dangerous state. There are great fears that peritonitis will set in.

A Fraudulent Scheme.

By Associated Press.
CHICAGO, August 27.—H. J. Hinkamp, one of the proprietors of the Times, procured warrants from Justice Lyon this afternoon for the arrest of James West and his secretary, Charles E. Graham. He charged them with stock pilfering, issuing 1,000 shares of stock of the Times Company.

Self Defense Against a Dangerous Foe.

Forewarned is not forearmed in the case of those who incur the risk of an attack from that dangerous foe, malaria, unprovided with a means of defense. But if those in peril are aided, sustained and reinforced with the great fortifying and remedial medicine, each bitter, miasma, prolific breeder of evil manifested in the shape of bilious remittent and chills and fever, ague, chills, ague and the centurion of the Isthmus and Central American coast, is nullified and rendered harmless. Our western pioneer settlers and miners, dwellers in tropic lowlands, and visitors of and dwellers in malarious localities in this country and many quarters of the globe, have for years been acquainted with the fact and are constantly provided with this unparalleled defensive medicine and remedy. All disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, rheumatic and kidney complaints and rheumatism are conquered by it.

A GENEROUS MAN.

Matt McCabe, of New Brunswick, Ill., offers to pay five dollars to any person troubled with bloody flux, who will take Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy according to directions and does not get well in the shortest possible time. One-half of a 25-cent bottle of this remedy cured him of bloody flux, after he had tried other medicines and the prescriptions of physicians without benefit. Mr. McCabe is perfectly safe in making this offer, as more than a thousand bottles of this remedy are sold each day and it has never been known to fail in any case of colic, cholera morbus, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, when the plain printed directions were followed. A Tragic End.
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27.—Adelberg Devendorf visited the house of Mrs. Zigler last night. She complained of being sick and he advised her to take quinine. She got a bottle, and he poured out three grains for her and took the same quantity himself. In a short time both were dead. Devendorf's brother states that the couple had been intimate, and that Mrs. Zigler had threatened to kill herself if Devendorf did not marry her.

Who Gets Them?

A railroad question of some importance has been brought up at the yards at Omaha, and it may be necessary to take it before the Interstate Commission before it can be definitely settled. The question is, can stock consigned to eastern points, with the stop-over privilege at South Omaha, be transferred to some other road in case it is sold in Omaha, and still go out on the through rate? A shipment of cattle was billed to Chicago over the Mississippi Pacific and the Rock Island, with the stop-over privilege at South Omaha. They were sold there and the buyer shipped them to Chicago over the C. B. & Q. The Rock Island protested and claims that it is entitled to the shipment.

DUST TO DUST.

The Remains of the Late Lieutenant-Governor Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Lieutenant-Governor H. C. Davis took place at 2 o'clock to-day in Carson under the auspices of Carson Lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., with the Carson and Reno Guards doing escort duty, headed by the Carson band. The remains were taken from the residence to the Episcopal Church, where the Rev. J. M. Rankin of Reno conducted the funeral services, after which the Masons took charge. At the grave W. M. George Richards of Carson Lodge, No. 1, read the impressive services of the Order and all that was mortal of the Lieutenant-Governor was committed to mother earth. The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Hon. C. H. Belknap, Hon. M. A. Murphy and Hon. T. P. Hawley, all of the Supreme Bench; Hon. Evan Williams, Hon. J. F. Hallock, Hon. F. J. McCulloch, Superintendent J. H. Whitely of the C. P., and A. M. Ardery of the V. & T. The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Carson, as all the business men closed up at 1 o'clock and remained closed until 4 o'clock. The following executive order was issued:

WHEREAS, The hand of Divine Providence has removed from our midst Henry C. Davis, Lieutenant-Governor of Nevada, therefore, it is Resolved, That the offices of the several departments of State be closed on the day of the funeral (Tuesday, August 27th, at 2 o'clock, from the Episcopal Church), and that the citizens, laying aside all business, attend service as a mark of respect to his memory, and in further sympathy with the sorrowing wife and children, and other relatives who mourn his loss. Done at Carson City this 26th day of August, 1889.

E. C. STEVENSON, Governor.

By the Governor:

JOHN M. DORMER, Secretary of State.

By A. C. PRATT, Deputy.

In obedience to it the State officers attended the funeral in a body. The church was profusely decorated with flowers and the casket was buried in blossoms.
 Mr. Davis was a member of Winnemucca Lodge and Chapter, and of Eureka Commandery of Knights Templar of Masons, all of which bodies had representatives present to-day.
 Mr. Davis was born on a Vermillion county (Ill.) farm, on June 18, 1848, and was brought up a farmer. In 1864

Late Lieutenant Governor H. C. Davis.

PERSONAL.

Col. Jerry Moore of Ruby went west on no 4.

N Church, an old railroad man, is visiting in Reno.

Rev. Mr. Sisson, of Mason Valley, was in town this morning.

B. F. Bussey, Land Agent of the General Land Office, is in Reno.

Miss Eva Quaffie has gone to Long Valley on a visit to the Rowland family.

Ton Buckner, the old-time Virginia City sport, arrived from below this morning.

Hon. Thomas Fitch and wife returned this morning from a visit to California friends.

C. T. Watson and Miss Etta Hollingsworth left this morning on a trip to Cottonwood Falls, Kansas.

Mrs. W. S. Herrub and daughter of Oakland came in from Eureka on No. 4 and are visiting Mrs. S. O. Wells.

A. W. Fox, once a son-in-law of Senator Stewart and the father of the two fine boys attending the University, is in Reno.

E. A. Fowler came in on No. 10 and Attorney-General Alexander on the delayed passenger in an attempt to get to Carson for the funeral, but the train had gone.

F. J. Morgan and wife, formerly of Lewis District, Lander county, returned to Reno this morning from a lengthy stay in California. Mr. Morgan is in very bad health.

W. J. Hanley, representative of Edward Harrigan and his New York company, under the management of M. W. Hanley, is in Reno. The company will be here on September 3d.

A Little Late.

The trains were all in soon enough to escape the statute of limitation this morning except the west-bound overland, which arrived about noon.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers—the Cal. Fig Syrup Company.

A Big Well.

Might be found. There are 22 wells at Battle Mountain, all of them flowing more or less water. The best one throws 36 gallons a minute. Mr. Crum has one well on his ranch. Blossom has five and Gimmel two. The belief is that they all come from the water of Reese river which comes into the Humboldt from the south, but which loses all its water in the sands many miles from Battle Mountain. The water falls below a streak of clay from 150 to 200 feet down, which is pierced by the drill and the water follows it to the surface. Of course thirty-six gallons a minute will not irrigate over an acre or two of land. Mr. Hawkins of Carson has sunk over a dozen wells getting water sometimes and at other times failing. He got no water at the Vail ranch, in Churchill county, but found small wells at the Orphan's Home and elsewhere near Carson. Quite a good well for stock was found on the Winters ranch, near Franktown, but one put down on a beautiful piece of land on the east side of Washoe Lake was a failure.

Two Attempts.

In Paradise Valley have also failed,

A Hopeful Means for Watering Stock, But Not for Irrigation.

A number of papers are holding out the idea that Nevada may hope for reclamation of large tracts of land from artesian water, and a long article quoted into Sunday's Journal said:

Experiments made at several points along the line of the Central Pacific Railroad show that there are considerable areas in Nevada where artesian water can be obtained provided a sufficient depth be reached. There is such a well at Humboldt, and by the aid of the water therefrom an oasis has been created there which is the delight of all travelers.

The writer is mistaken all around. There is no artesian well at Humboldt or anywhere near it, and all the experiments along the line discourage the idea of doing anything with artesian wells beyond watering a garden or affording drink for sheep or cattle. The railroad company put down a well at Lovelocks a number of years ago and only quit when the capacity of the machinery was reached, but got no water of any consequence, and the little they got was bad. Afterwards a well was sunk at Hot Springs as deep as the machine could get, but no water. After resting a few years the late Charles Crocker determined to make

A THOROUGH TEST.

And he engaged Mr. Chapin, an expert from the oil region of Pennsylvania, to take charge of the work. They selected the lowest point on the road between Truckee and Toiyabe, which happened to be at White Plains. It is 700 feet lower than Reno and is a place where water is very much needed, as the company has to haul from the Truckee River at Wadsworth or from Humboldt Lake at Browns for their engines and run over a very hilly road for 45 miles. The best machinery known was bought and a hundred thousand dollars expended to put the well down. It reached a depth of 2,346 feet and was abandoned. A little salt water came in at forty feet, but no more. It was proved that

ARTESIAN WELLS.

A Hopeful Means for Watering Stock, But Not for Irrigation.

A number of papers are holding out the idea that Nevada may hope for reclamation of large tracts of land from artesian water, and a long article quoted into Sunday's Journal said:

Experiments made at several points along the line of the Central Pacific Railroad show that there are considerable areas in Nevada where artesian water can be obtained provided a sufficient depth be reached. There is such a well at Humboldt, and by the aid of the water therefrom an oasis has been created there which is the delight of all travelers.

The writer is mistaken all around. There is no artesian well at Humboldt or anywhere near it, and all the experiments along the line discourage the idea of doing anything with artesian wells beyond watering a garden or affording drink for sheep or cattle. The railroad company put down a well at Lovelocks a number of years ago and only quit when the capacity of the machinery was reached, but got no water of any consequence, and the little they got was bad. Afterwards a well was sunk at Hot Springs as deep as the machine could get, but no water. After resting a few years the late Charles Crocker determined to make

A THOROUGH TEST.

And he engaged Mr. Chapin, an expert from the oil region of Pennsylvania, to take charge of the work. They selected the lowest point on the road between Truckee and Toiyabe, which happened to be at White Plains. It is 700 feet lower than Reno and is a place where water is very much needed, as the company has to haul from the Truckee River at Wadsworth or from Humboldt Lake at Browns for their engines and run over a very hilly road for 45 miles. The best machinery known was bought and a hundred thousand dollars expended to put the well down. It reached a depth of 2,346 feet and was abandoned. A little salt water came in at forty feet, but no more. It was proved that Canadian Sagittalis.

A correspondent says: Huge trunks of trees come floating lazily down the Ottawa and its affluents for hundreds of miles till they reach a row of monsters, full of greedy teeth within, which straddle over the current. Here the tanks, all slippery and dripping, are caught up at one end of a shed and issue from the other, literally in a few minutes, in such finished planks as you might buy from a carpenter. The way in which a great log ten or twelve feet round is hoisted from the water, laid upon a track, pinned rigidly down in an instant, and then, suddenly, by means of a great whirling saw, finds one side of himself as flat as a wall, is almost truculent. You expect him to cry out. But he is sliced up before he has time to think. I saw one of the smaller trunks cut into eight three-inch twenty-one feet planks in seven seconds. In a very few minutes more these were trimmed and thrust out into the building world; so far ready for use. Large and small trees are disposed of at an equal rate. Some half dozen mouths in a row within one shed keep gobbling them up at the same time and sending them out in clean deal boards without any appearance of chips, sawdust, or rounded outside slabs. These all disappear rapidly through holes in the floor, and no litter accompanies the neat procession of planks which make their appearance at the land end of the shed, and are rapidly carried off in trucks. The accumulation of "deals" at Ottawa is of course enormous. When you look down from the terrace behind the Houses of Parliament the river banks far inland are seen to be brown with square stacks of prepared timber awaiting export. And much of the water is like Alderney cream. That is the sawdust which is whirled down the river from the mills. When a steamer traverses these yellow plains their more appropriate resemblance to wood recurs, for the sheets of spray spring from her bows like coils of shavings from a plane.

Early Vegetables.
Most of the species of vegetable we now cultivate have been grown and eaten for centuries. Even before the Christian era, many of them were in use. Lettuce has been used at the table for thousands of years. Herodotus tells us that it was served at the royal tables centuries before the Christian era, and one of the noble families of Rome derived its name from a plant.

Spinach, asparagus and celery have been cultivated and eaten among the Eastern nations for thousands of years. Radishes were known and grown by the Greeks, and were offered at Apollo's shrine, wrought in precious metals. Parsnips were grown and brought from the Rhine to add to the luxuries of Tiberius' table.

Beets were most esteemed centuries ago, and carrots were in such repute in Queen Elizabeth's reign that the ladies of her court adorned their huge structure of false hair with their feathering plumes. Peas at Elizabeth's court were very rare, and were imported from Holland as a great delicacy.

Fruits were also in great repute among the ancients. The currant was cultivated centuries ago in European gardens and was called the Corinthian grape. One old writer speaks of the berries as Corinths, hence the name of currants. The damson plum was extensively cultivated at Damascus, whence its name.

The cherry came from Croesus, a city of Pontus, and the delicious peach, king of fruits, was first known in Persia. The quince was a holy fruit, dedicated to the goddess of love, and was called Cydonian apple. Pears are as ancient as apples, and are mentioned among the Paradisal fruits.

Tom Paine's Bones.
A correspondent repeats a statement he made six or seven years ago to the effect that Cobbet, after taking the exhumed bones of Thomas Paine from America to England, left them in a warehouse at Liverpool, "and no one knows what has become of them." The facts are that Cobbet took the bones to his own house in Farnham, where they remained "stowed away" until after Cobbet's death in 1835, when his estate, real and personal, went under the hammer. At the sale the box was brought out into the upper hall of the house, no one knowing the contents of the package. On opening it a plate plainly told what was packed underneath. The auctioneer, on reading the plate, uttered an exclamation of astonishment at the discovery, and then said: "I have never sold human flesh, and I will never sell human bones." Whereupon the lid was nailed on and the box removed. Such is the account of the affair as read by the undersigned, now over fifty years ago. Doubtless there are those living of Cobbet's grandchildren, and perhaps other people who know what at last was done with the bones of the "author-hero" of the American Revolution.

AN ECCENTRIC GENIUS.
Characteristics of a Once Celebrated English Actor.
With ordinary prudence Charles Dillon might have become one of the first, if not the first manager in London. Apart, however, from his erratic mode of conducting his business, he unfortunately commenced his enterprise with borrowed capital, was overwhelmed with old debts and had not even the scintillation of an idea on the subject of finance. Besides these drawbacks, his defective early training, his eccentric mode of dress, his disregard for the conveniences of society, perpetually asserted themselves to his serious disadvantage. When out of the theatre he was never happy unless when loafing around the nearest bar with congenial companions, who swallowed his stories (which were by no means bad ones) and his libations with equal avidity. In this respect he was wonderfully like Edmund Kean and Lemaitre, who, at the height of their prosperity, preferred the society of their old "pals" to that of peers and princes. It must be admitted, however, that Dillon bore his blushing honors meekly, and that he never was so affable in his life during his brief spell of prosperity. The only extravagance he ever indulged in was a brougham, which was usually ordered at ten, to bring him to the Lyceum, but it was generally two or three hours later before he started. It was again ordered to take him home to dinner, but was invariably kept waiting all the afternoon, while he oscillated 'twixt the Albion and the Strand, when it was not infrequently dismissed altogether. Then he would adjourn to his own room in the theatre, where, over a rump steak and a pot of stout, with a few intimates he would discuss his last or his next performance, until it was time for the doors to open, when he would take a stroll round the Strand to smoke his cigar and to see the people flock into the pit, a habit he could never get rid of to the last.

Jewish Humor.
The humorous point of view from which we survey one another qua Jews, and that from which we survey our neighbors qua Gentiles, are, of course, among the more local and characteristic features of the subject. "It would be impertinent to dilate," says the Jewish Chronicle, "on what every Jew realizes so thoroughly; if he does not, no amount of explanation will help him. To make the comic character of a play or novel a Jew is a sufficiently common device; as unsuccessful, it must be added, as it is common. Perhaps these Merry Andrews of fiction have their uses, and serve to rouse the laughter of the Gentile public; perhaps we have a comic side which we ourselves are incapable of perceiving, and yet we are by no means sparing of one another in this respect. As far as we can judge we should say that only a Jew perceives to the full humor of another; but it is a humor so fine, so peculiar, so distinct in flavor, that we believe it impossible to impart its perception to any one not born a Jew. The most hardened agnostic deserter from the synagogue enjoys its pungency where the zealous alien convert to Judaism tastes nothing but a little bitterness. In these days, indeed, of slackening bonds, of growing carelessness as to long-cherished traditions, when the old order is changing and giving place to new with startling rapidity, it is, perhaps, our sense of humor as much as anything else which keeps alive the family feeling of the Jewish race."

Oregon is one of the most productive State in the Union. Its vast mineral regions contain gold, silver, copper, iron and coal. In immense tracts of grazing lands support thousands of cattle and sheep, and its extensive agricultural regions produce all the cereals in abundance, the yield per acre being in some instances, the largest in the world. Among the useful and valuable products of the Wehlost State may be mentioned Oregon Kidney Tea, which has proved a boon to thousands afflicted with pain in the back and kidney difficulties. It is purely of vegetable composition and never fails. Sold by William Fininger.

The immediate symptoms of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are a distressing sense of weight, oppression and fullness in the stomach, heartburn, loss of appetite, foul breath, belching, flatulency, nausea, pains in the shoulders and breast. Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic promotes healthy digestion and removes all unhealthy symptoms. Sold by William Fininger.

It should be generally known that Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic insures a hearty appetite and increased digestion, dispels nervous depression and low spirits, overcomes lack of energy and wakefulness, and will infuse new life and strength into the weakest invalid. Sold by William Fininger.
